Why this works better in English:

•

Professional Vocabulary: Using terms like "uncompromising focus on quality," "sanctuary," and "refined living" targets the premium tenant segment much more effectively.

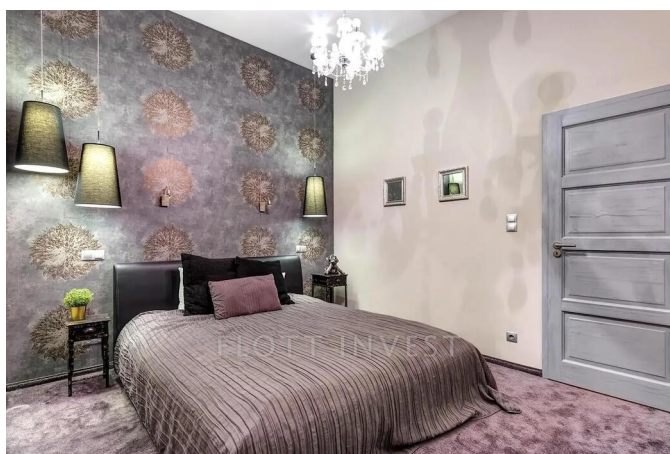

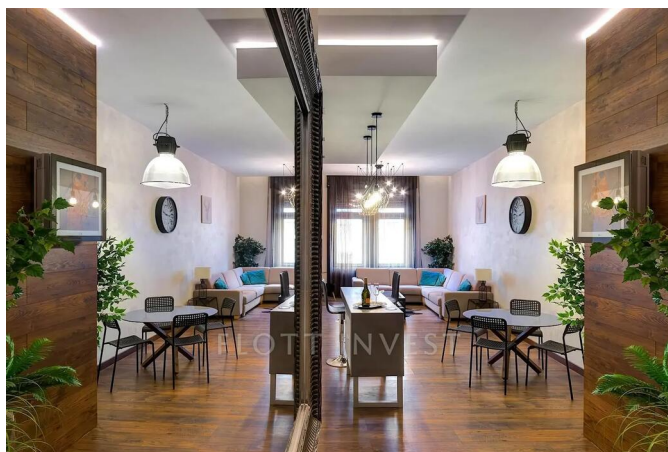

•

Clarity: The structured bullet points make the key features (like the home office nook or separate wardrobe) stand out immediately.

•

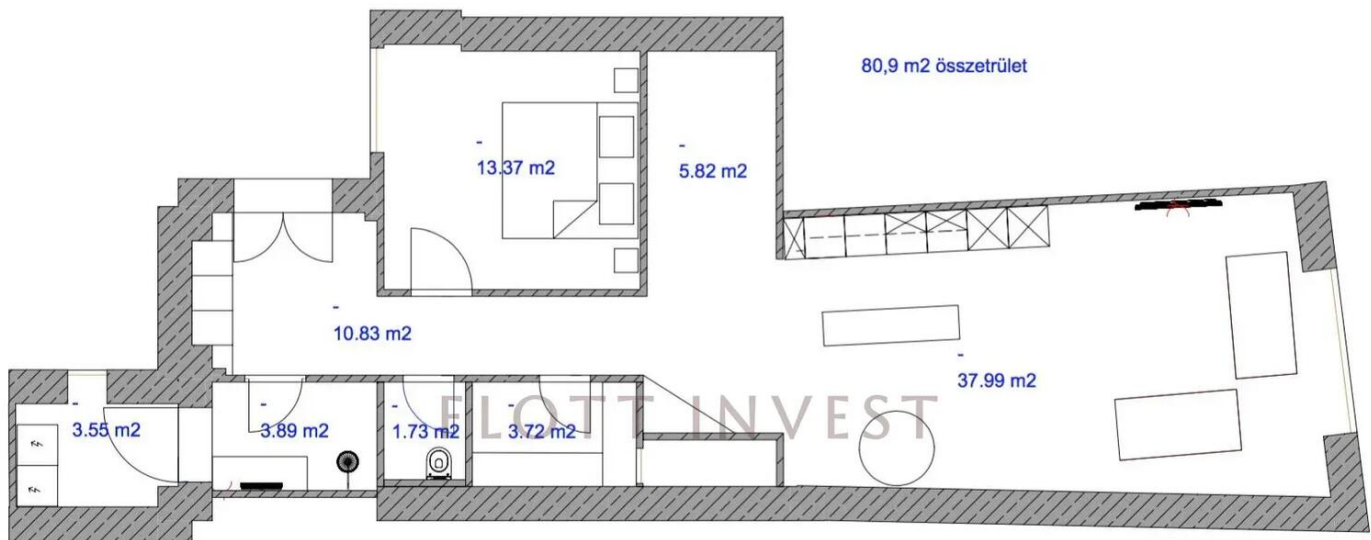

Style: It avoids the "listing-style" fragmentation and reads more like a professional property brochure, which builds trust with high-end international tenants.
